```The Bleeding Rose 🌹 sneak peak```

So now aside from the constant war between the North and the west kingdom there is a constant War between me and the queen and I'm not sure if it's stopping without any of us finishing another.

If I take you with me you will also get involved in that war.

So I want you to decide if you're going to continue staying here with my sister or if you are coming with me to the hellish Kingdom.

However Farah, I won't promise to give you peace, I won't promise to give you love, I don't have any of it. but I promise I'll put my life on line to protect you, as long as you will serve and protect my mother. If you want this whole world I'll make sure to get it and place it at your feet, and no matter what will happen wether you're right or wrong I promise to be by your side.

This is a promise I will never break. This is a promise from Namir to Farah. And this is a promise from a Husband to his wife."
```

By this time Gulping is all i can do. I feel like a shrimp comparing my struggle to giant sharks in the ocean. Whichever path Master Namir decides to follow the consequences will not only be for him but the millions citizens of North.

"So you decide by tomorrow if you still want to go with me put off that lantern by your right side. And if you don't, I'll understand and leave after 10 seconds" he stood up.

"I leave you in peace"
